This is my personal story. Not everyone will have similar experiences or achieve similar results.

“I WASN’T TOO CONCERNED”

- A growth on my right sideburn
 - In 1992 my barber found a growth on my right sideburn
 - Had it removed, but in 1998 it slowly came back
- Another surgery to remove it
 - Confirmed it was melanoma. I wasn’t too concerned
- In 2002 another bump appeared and continued to grow
 - Exploratory surgery but no solid findings
- I was referred to a cancer center – this finally got my attention

“YOUR NECK WAS REALLY GLOWING”

- I tried radiation and courses of interferon
 - Interferon made me too sick so I stopped after 3 months
- Spring of 2003, more lumps came back – all tests were negative
- A second opinion, and second treatment center
 - Tests revealed spots on my neck, lungs, liver and kidneys
- I was told I had six months to live

“PROLEUKIN: IT’S A TOUGH ROAD, BUT IT MAY WORK”

- It wasn’t featured as a first choice, but the doctor said I should consider it
 - I was told very little, and it was hard to get information
 - It was described as tough, but there were few alternatives
 - We did a lot of research, a lot of thinking and a lot of praying
- Chances of success were very low
 - I was able to talk to a Denver policeman who had gone through it

PROLEUKIN TREATMENT EXPERIENCE

- Treatment began in November of 2003
- After 1 or two doses you don't remember much about what's happening
- I had many of the expected side effects:
 - Diarrhea
 - Vomiting
 - Rigors
 - Hiccups
 - Dry mouth, thrush in mouth
 - Skin rashes and peeling
- I occasionally have the hiccups as a lasting side effect

EMOTIONALLY COPING WITH FAITH & FAMILY

- Treatment was very hard on my family, but they stuck through it
- My second course was set for December of 2003
 - I made it through 8 doses and stopped
- I was positive and had faith
 - I set a goal to see our daughter get married
- In early 2004 I had a neck resection which showed no indication of melanoma
- Gave me hope – I made it through every round the next two cycles

NO EVIDENCE OF DISEASE

- I saw my daughter get married in May of 2004

Results not typical

THE APPLE OF MY EYE

- In 2007 I was blessed with a grandson

- Find someone to talk to who understands where you’re coming from
 - Helps with emotions
- Educate yourself about all the options
 - There’s a chance you may learn something that could have an impact on your decisions
- Set goals and think positively

THANK YOU
